

Bradley Graham, M.S.

Bradley Graham began his law enforcement career in 1987 as a Police Officer for the Santa Ana (CA) Police Department. In 1989, he became a Patrol Officer for the Tacoma (WA) Police Department where he remained until 2018. In 1994, he was promoted to Detective where he served in the Domestic Violence, Special Assaults, and Homicide Units. The last 15 years of his career at Tacoma PD were spent in the Special Assaults Unit as the senior Detective specializing in investigating child physical abuse, sexual abuse, and child death investigations. In addition to his investigative case load, Detective Graham was a certified polygraph examiner conducting criminal polygraph examinations.

Brad retired from law enforcement in December 2018 after 30 years of service. He currently works for the Washington State Attorney General's Office in the Criminal Justice Division – Sexually Violent Predator Unit. In addition, he serves as a Lecturer for the University of Washington – Tacoma teaching several courses within the School of Social Work and Criminal Justice.

Brad is a certified Instructor for the Washington State Criminal Justice Training Commission and has been teaching at the Academy since 1995. He has taught classes in child abuse, sex crimes, domestic violence, interview and interrogation, and the use of DNA in investigations. He has presented classes and case studies at conferences and symposiums throughout the country. He serves as a faculty member and instructor for the APSAC Child Forensic Interview Clinic.

Brad has a Master of Science degree in Law & Justice from Central Washington University. He is the author of a book on abuse investigations - Effective Child Abuse Investigations for the Multi-Disciplinary Team – published in 2015 by CRC Press.
